A Brother's Present

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union)

“THERE was once,” said Daddy, “a boy whose name was Worthington, and for short they called him Worthy.”

“He had a sister whom he called Minnie, and it is a story of these two I want to tell you this evening.”

Nick and Nancy looked very much pleased. They loved to hear about other children, especially of boys and girls about their own ages.

“Worthington was unlike some brothers, but he was like you in that way Nick. He liked to play with his sister. His sister liked, too, to play with him. He never frightened her, but he showed her how to do things, and she was never afraid when she was with him. In the fall he took her for rides in her express cart, and he made a high seat in the cart for her when he took her for slower and more stylish rides.

“He taught her to climb trees and to swim and to do tricks on the trapeze. And she, too, used to play in the snowball fights, back in the forts which he and the other boys would make.

“Well, it was summer, and Worthington was not going to school. He thought and he thought, and he thought, and finally he said:

“I wonder if it couldn't be done. I will try anyway.” He worked out the whole scheme in his head, and the next day he went to his aunt who owned a garden, and he said:

“Auntie, I have been thinking about something.”

“Yes,” she said, “what have you been thinking about, Bubby?” For she had always called him that—ever since he had been a small boy and she had written a funny little poem for one of his birthdays where she wrote Bubby to make it rhyme with chubby.

“I think Minnie is old enough to ride a bicycle now. I would like to give her one.”

“A bicycle!” exclaimed their aunt.

“Why don't you suggest giving her an automobile or a motorboat with a sleeping cabin? How could you ever manage it, Bubby?”

“She hadn't realized that he had thought it all out, and she stopped to hear what he had to say, for he usually had extremely sensible things to say.

“It wouldn't really be so awfully expensive, auntie, and I'd love to do it so. I would like to give it to her for Christmas. I couldn't do it before I don't believe, and besides she could look at it all winter and think of what fun it was going to be in the summer. I have a bicycle mother and daddy gave me—and I do wish Minnie could have one, too.”

“How do you think you could buy it?” Auntie asked again. She felt pretty sure by that time that he might be able to manage it, but she wondered how.

“Well, this summer,” said Worthy. “I could hoe the beans in your garden, and I could weed the garden paths. I could water the flowers every night, and do all the weeding, in fact. You wouldn't need to have a man do the work, except one day a week to do the heavy things.”

“I could work in the garden every morning and every evening just before supper. It would be fun! Then I could do all your errands and later I could rake the leaves and build the bonfires. I wouldn't tell Minnie that I was getting—well—I hoped—perhaps you'd pay me half of what you might pay a man.”

“I could carry the wood from the woodhouse into the dining room woodbox every morning, before school when the fall comes, and then with a little bit I have in the savings bank I could get Minnie, my precious little sister, a bicycle. I heard mother and daddy talking the other day about how they'd like to get one for her, but they thought maybe they'd better wait another year or two, and I know it will be a jolly surprise to both of them, as well as to sister, when they see it.”

“Indeed, I will help you do it,” Auntie said. “But you will get just the same as a man would get for the work you will do. And Minnie will talk to you and sometimes help you so it won't be so hard.”

“I don't care how hard it is,” said Worthy, “for I would like it to be a little bit hard. Then I would know I were giving something to her.”

“And when Christmas came Worthy gave his little sister a bicycle. And this,” said Daddy, “is a true story.”

“I Could Work in the Garden.”

A CHRISTMAS WALK

In silvery softness the anthem closed
Like a slowly silenced bell;
The sacred calm of a peace divine
Like a benediction fell;
And out on the morning light that spread
A glimmer of amber gray,
I walked with Margery home from church
On an old, old Christmas Day.

A bland, mild day—for the rugged month
Had chosen a kindly mood,
Like a wonderful mellow aftermath
From the Autumn's plenitude.
With scarcely a tang of wholesome cold
Did the Winter's breezes blow,
As Margery walked from church with me
On a Christmas long ago.

The earnest words that had touched our hearts—
The warnings, kindly and wise—
Had left a shadow of tenderness
In Margery's violet eyes;

The merry, boydenish maid I'd known
For a twelvemonth's flying space,
Had taken on that old Christmas Day,
A new and womanly grace.

As through the tremulous opal clouds
That shifted and swayed apart,
A sun ray lighted the rosy face,
The wish was born in my heart
That down the trail of the unspent years, Whatever their trend might be,
The soft-eyed maiden beside me then,
Might walk to the end with me.

Absently watching the velvet flakes
By the white gale set a-wing,
I breathe the spirit of other years
While the bells of Yuletide ring;
And near me, smiling with happy eyes
At our children's romping play,
Is the girl who walked from church with me
On that old, sweet Christmas Day.

ANCIENT CHRISTMAS TOYS

Dolls That Delighted Children of Rome and Greece in Early Days Recently Excavated.

Rag dolls are as old as the hills and so are dolls with movable arms and legs, toy dogs, rocking horses and a host of other things that bring delight to the children on Christmas morning.

Recent excavations in the ruins of ancient Rome, Greece and Egypt have placed the British museum in possession of an interesting assortment of these relics of ancient Christian days, some of which may possibly have been given to the children of the followers of Christ at a time when the observation of Christmas day was an innovation.

In the nursery of a newly excavated house at Behnesa, Egypt, a fairly well preserved rag doll was found with arms and legs still intact and painted face. The doll is by no means a beauty and does not compare with the Christmas dolls of today, but nevertheless it must have brought joy to a little girl's heart nearly 2,000 years ago.

The jointed dolls of long ago were made to sit down, stand up and move their arms, but they didn't close their eyes or squeak “mamma.” Among the toy dogs, horses and donkeys are some made of stone and baked clay and others carved out of wood.

HYMN FOR CHRISTMAS.

Oh! lovely voices of the sky
Which hymned the Savior's birth,
Are ye not singing still on high,
Ye that sang "Peace on earth?"
To us yet speak the strains Wherewith in time gone by Ye blessed the Syrian swains,
Oh! voices of the sky!

Oh! clear and shining light whose beams
That hour heaven's glory shed,
Around the palms and o'er the streams,
And on the shepherd's head,
Be near, through life and death,
As in that holiest night
Of hope and joy and faith—
Oh! clear and shining light!

LESSON OF CHRISTMAS DAY

Example of Christ Should Inspire Unselfishness and Make Us Try to Remedy Faults.

Christmas should inspire a world of unselfishness. The example before us is almost too perfect, for it rather frightens us to attempt such divine heights of self-abnegation, but we can try. It will at least take us from the depths of selfishness, where most of us now are. Each Christmas day should teach us something of the lesson of the Holy Child's life.

If we could learn from Christmas, today and in the succeeding years the serious lessons of self-betterment and ennoblement it has to offer, how infinitely better it would be than just to look on it as a holiday for gifts and feasts, for extravagance and foolishness.

So take an hour or two off on Christmas day and give it up to retrospective and self-inspection. You will each find faults, if you judge yourself impartially, for no one is perfect. Then make a serious determination to try to overcome those faults, for only trying to improve is there any growth in character. If you are satisfied with yourself you stay just as you are with all your faults and virtues. But if you try hard to remedy the faults your character is constantly growing broader. This is the lesson which Christmas day has for each of you.

NEEDLESS PRECAUTION.

Hubby—It's all rot and nonsense to try to make children believe there's such a character as Santa Claus. They ought to be taught better.

Wife—Our children don't need to be taught better. They know there's no Santa Claus in this house.

The Day We "Ate."

In other words, Christmas is the day where we shall celebrate, masticate and bicarbonate, and the next day we shall medicate.

USE OF EVERGREENS.

The use of evergreens at Christmas time is older than the Christmas tree, the Christians seeming to have copied it from their pagan ancestors. In a very old book we find this reference to the use of evergreens at Christmas time: "Against the feast of Christmas every man's house, as also their parish churches, were decked with holme, ivy, bayes, and whatsoever the season of the year afforded to be green. The conduits and standards of the streets were likewise garnished; among which I read that in the year 1414, by tempest of thunder and lightning, toward the morning of Candlemas day, at the Leadenhall, in Cornhill, a standard of tree, being set up in the midst of the pavement, fast in the ground, nailed full of holme and ivy, for disport of Christmas to the people, was torn up and cast down by the malignant spirit (as was thought), and the stones of the pavement all about were cast in the streets and into divers houses, so that the people were sore aghast at the great tempest."

It is a blessed thing to believe in Christmas and all that it means. It is a blessed thing to be able to hear the song of the heavenly visitors. It has never sounded sweeter; never more necessary, never more full of hope and promise.

Charity at Christmas.

There can be no holier sentiment attached to a gift on Christmas day than charity, for charity combines all that is good and tender in human ideal, impulse and emotion. There is a double joy in charity, for it blesses two. It not only gives happiness in the act itself, but it quickens and develops, for all after life, pure, precious qualities of mind and heart that are a well-spring of peace. Charity comes nearer to spanning the immeasurable space between the sin of this world and the holiness of heaven than any other blessing that mankind knows.

An ideal Christmas which would really mean genuine good will among men is one in which none should be cold, hungry, shelterless or friendless—one in which they who have would think first of them who have not.—Christian Herald.

CHRISTMAS

Sparkling snow on the ground—an invigorating tang to the air—the mouth-watering smell of cooking from the cozily-warm kitchen—our boy safely home from overseas with brave stories to tell and all the manhood crystallized in him—relatives and old friends gathering at the festive table—holly wreaths at the windows and a crackling fire in the open hearth—the hilarious laughter of kiddies as the new toys make them bubble over—mistletoe nailed mischievously above the door for the kiss you mean to give bustling, unsuspecting mother—the silvery, tranquil peal of church bells across the soft-snowed open places—an amazing forgetfulness of the dour anticipations and business worries of only yesterday—a sudden re-bellief that love is life—
That is Christmas!

Tact and Charm.

Dinner conversation offers the opportunity to eliminate all disagreeable topics. To lay aside one's worries and keep one's troubles from obtruding.
The same should be said of all occasions and good form particularly denotes that dinners, and formal dinners at that, should be freed of personal burdens retailed.

At all times give interest as well as try to inspire it and one of the emphatic ways is to let the person who happens to be speaking have your undivided attention. Attention and concentration amount to about the same thing and should apply to what one is oneself saying as well as hearing.

To Temper China.

Many a lover of fine china is heartbroken to discover her choice dinner or tea set lined with hairlike cracks.
Hot tea or chocolate poured into dainty cups cracks them instantly.

A Chinese merchant gave this bit of information when a rare tea set was purchased from him: "Before using delicate china place it in a pan of cold water. Let it come gradually to a boil and allow the china to remain in the water till cold." This tempers the china and it is capable of withstanding the sudden expansion caused by the heat. There is no need of repeating the treatment for a long time.

RABBIS BLESS MEAT AS STEAMSHIP LOADS

First Kosher Meat in Five Years
Goes to European Jews
—as Gift.

New York.—Included in the more than $8,000,000 worth of supplies sent abroad by American Jewish relief agencies thus far this year were several hundred tons of "kosher" meat.
The steamer Ashburn, which left here some time ago for Danzig, carried 500 tons of this commodity, while the Huachuca, which has just sailed, is carrying a smaller consignment to Constanza, Rumania.

Unusual interest attaches to both these shipments. Prominent Jews of this city inspected the first cargo.
Jewish rabbis blessed the barrels of meat as they were lowered into the ship's hold. The meat was a gift from the Jews of America to their coreligionists in Poland and other parts of Europe. These European Jews have eaten virtually no meat in five years, for their religion prohibits them using meat other than that killed by a rabbi and in an orthodox manner, and "kosher" meat has been unobtainable.

Among the other supplies sent in these regular shipments are soap, clothing, shoes and shoe-repairing materials, large quantities of notions, medicines, hospital supplies and a long list of additional articles, every one of which is lacking in the war-wrecked countries across the Atlantic.

Funds to continue these regular sailings of relief ships are now being sought by the American Jewish Relief Committee, whose headquarters are at 15 East 40th Street, this city. Louis
Marshall is chairman and Henry H.
Rosenfeld director of this organization. Campaigns are scheduled for this fall in some twenty states, and it is expected to bring the total contributions for Jewish relief this year up to $35,000,000.

Christmas Thanks.

For little children everywhere.
A joyous season still we make,
And bring our precious gifts to them
Even for the dear child Jesus' sake.
—Cary.

BASIC ECONOMICS

The schools are the medium which we should use to spread among the American people correct notions of capital, labor, banking and thrift. * * * The elementary school is none too early in which to begin instruction along such lines. We are all agreed that thrift should be taught in schools, but to teach mere saving or accumulation without showing what the objects of thrift are, is teaching miserliness. In connection with the teaching of thrift there should also be taught the function of banks. Pupils should be made to see that mere saving does no good unless that which is saved is used to create more wealth. To that end they should be shown that there is a great difference between money which is merely stored up in a little iron bank at home and that which is taken to a real bank and is put out into the industrial world to earn an interest in return. In some of our large schools there are school savings banks established. These exist not only in elementary but in high schools, but in very few cases are any attempts made to teach the pupils the functions of a bank and where the interest comes from.

A man arrested in San Francisco on I. W. W. charges offered War Savings Stamps in evidence to disprove the charges. It was a good plea.

Give him a War Savings Stamp for Christmas—a $5 present for $4.23.

SUCH A SMART BROTHER

But It Is Entirely Probable Sister Did Not Appreciate His Peculiar Form of Wit.

A young lady in Lakewood is of the opinion that she is grown up—in which opinion she is not encouraged either by her parents or her older brother. She is fifteen, brother is sixteen. She thinks that young men should be allowed to call on her in the evening; brother jeers, parents shake their heads.

Finally the girl's mother consented to her having a certain approved boy call, provided he came on a Friday evening. And the excited damsel called the favored youth up on the phone and imparted the glad news. It is presumed that the young man (he was all of eighteen years old) spent a good deal of time at his toilet that evening—certainly the young lady took great care of hers. She was still primping when the swain rang the doorbell. Brother answered.

"Ah," began the caller, clearing his throat. "Is Miss Jones at home?"

"Come in," answered Brother, equivocally. Then he went to the foot of the stairs and called—

"Molly! Quit cuttin' paper dolls an' come downstairs. One of your playmates wants to see you!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CITY'S PRIDE WELL FOUNDED

Alexandria, Va., Has Right to Boast of Her Present as Well as Her Past Glories.

Alexandria, Va., is a thriving little southern city with a historic background. The city can never decide of which it should be proud—its prosperous present or historic past. As a rule it divides its pride equally between them. Several times it has been given an opportunity to become part of the District of Columbia and proudly refused.

Alexandrians will show you with equal pride their busy shipyards and harbor and then escort you to one of their ancient landmarks, such as Christ church or the Carlyle house. Christ church is sacred to the memory of the south's two greatest heroes, Washington and Lee. The Washington and Lee pews in the church are side by side, their names marked by silver plates. Twin mural tablets on the church's wall are inscribed to their memory. The chancel rail is the one before which they knelt, the tablets of the Lord's prayer and Apostle's Creed were there in Washington's time. In the vestry room relics of the heroes are preserved—the record of their purchase of their pews, the Bible and the long handled purse used in Washington's time for the offerings.

The congress of Alexandria met in the old Carlyle house, over twenty years before the battle of Lexington was fought. It was the first protest against "taxation without representation" held in Virginia. It was in this same old mansion that the Braddock expedition was decided upon. Washington was a frequent visitor to the house. His diary has often the words: "Lodg'd at Col. Carlyle's."

OLD LAW ON STATUTE BOOKS

If British Judges Were Guided by It
There Would Be Some Confusion
in the "Island Empire."

Many curious acts of parliament still remain on the statute book, remarks the London Daily Mail. Every little while these appear in the courts, but as the British judges decide cases more by the public interest than by the law they cause very little trouble.

Three acts have been quoted this week. One referred to an act of George II., which allowed the landlord to charge a tenant he wished to leave his premises double rent. The plaintiff claimed, but lost his case.

Another was a claim by the admiralty for freight on bullion carried from South Africa on a warship. This claim was decided in favor of the bankers, who got their freight free owing to an act that was passed in 1819 for the purpose of stopping the abuse of the privilege of conveying bullion in king's ships by the commercial community.

An act that is still enforced is one of James I., dated 1424, a Scottish statute. It reads:

"If any mine of gold or silver be found in any lord's lands of the realm and it may be proved that three half-pennies of silver may be fined out of the pound of lead, the lords of parliament consent that such mine may be the king's, as is usual of other realms."

THE FLAG, YOUR FLAG AND MINE

By FRANK BRANAN.
(Of the Vigilantes.)

Azure blue of the far-off sky,
Starry sweep of a nation's eye,
Emblem of glory that cannot die—
The Flag, your flag and mine.

Crimson stripes of heroes' blood,
(Fresh with a never-failing flood)
Sacred, unsullied, unfurled to God—
The Flag, your flag and mine.

The Question of Importance.

Millionaire—Tell me, child, that young man who wants to marry you this Christmas, has he got any money?

Miss Innocence—Money, father? Why, he has just given me a cluster diamond ring studded with pearls.

Millionaire—Yes, I know. Has he any money left?

The First Christmas Card.

The Christmas card cannot claim to have been established so long as other of our Christmas customs. The first Christmas card came into the world in 1843, when Sir Henry Cole, an Englishman, sent Yuletide greetings to his friends.

"What? A holiday greetings card with old Bill's name scribbled across it? . . . Good old BILL! Why, it's 11 years almost since we saw each other, and here he's not forgotten me even yet! . . . Huh, Mary, you needn't be so all-fired proud of that scarf Aunt Susie sent you. This may be only a colored postcard, but, by George, it's from BILL! . . . Well, well—this sure is Christmas!"

ASIA BIRTHPLACE OF ST. NICHOLAS

Contrary to General Belief in This Country, He Was Not of German Origin

BORN IN SIXTH CENTURY

Worshiped by Italian Sea Traders as Their Special Protector—Played Double Role in This Country in Early Days.

Just why so many Americans think of the good Saint Nicholas as a German saint, and on second guess accord it him with Dutch ancestry, is not known. But it is undoubtedly the general belief in our country that the saint, whose birthday, December 6, is celebrated in some countries as the "gift festival" of the year, was of Teutonic extraction.

The Christmas saint really was born in Asia Minor, in Panthera, in the province of Lycia, some time in the sixth century. St. Nicholas of Bari, he is oftenest called by Europeans, but only the bones of St. Nicholas reposing for eight centuries in the crypt of a handsome cathedral at Bari, Italy, have given him that title. He never lived in Bari. Italian sea traders, who worshiped him as their special protector, stole his body from its resting place in Myra in the twelfth century and brought it to the Italian seaport. Since that time the celebration held there in the saint's honor is unique.

The Eastern world knew and loved him first, but it is from Western Europe that we learn of many of the quaint customs connected with the celebration of his birth. In Lycia he lived to a good old age, filling his days even in childhood by doing good deeds and giving lavishly to the poor of the fortune he inherited. It was Christlike to give, so, as a steward of God, his wealth belonged to God's children. Nicholas believed. Finally he was made bishop of Myra, where he went to live after a pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

It was not strange that after such a life of charity he should become a saint of the common people, even as St. George was a saint of knighthood. He was invoked by the laborer toiling for his daily bread, by mariners, by merchants. He was protector of the weak against the strong, the poor against the rich, the captive, the prisoner, the slave. He was especial guardian of maidens, schoolboys, the orphan poor. Throughout all Catholic Europe children are taught to reverence him, and to believe if they are docile and attentive to their duties he will fill the cap or stocking with dainties; if they are naughty or idle, he certainly has a rod in pickle to bring along for them.

Saint Nicholas has found his way to America in double role of benefactor and bugaboo. Among the Pennsylvania Dutch parents still admonish children: "Be good, Peznickel will get you"—Peznickel being a species of unkind Santa Claus and closely related to the "Old Nick." In some sections Kris Kringle appears in combined role of Santa Claus and Christchild. He has other names—Samiclaus, Clawes Niglo, Nikolo.

Although strangely little is known of St. Nicholas in America, a few churches scattered over the country bear his name. No saint of the calendar has as many churches, altars and chapels erected in his honor. Most towns in England boast churches bearing St. Nicholas' name. There are more than a hundred in Belgium and thousands scattered over Europe. But wherever he is worshiped and his birthday observed it is always in remembrance of the fact that he is a follower and disciple of the Christ, whose coming was the greatest gift of all.

Boosts and knocks

By Observer

Did you skid on Ocean Avenue sidewalks during the rain storm?
One felt the need of chains below
Monte Verde.

Are you going to be in line for one of Curtis' candy canes? If they're as good as his caramels and chews, we'll say they are O K.

Some live-wires at the Highlands!
That Monday night reading club must be a good 'un. Wonder if they have read "The Young Visitor."

Local wood dealers tell us that pitch chips are hard to get. Hard to pay for, too, we'll tell the world.
A dollar a sack—about two cents a chip. They're more expensive than poker chips. "The needle, Watson."

During the big wind storm the other night one of our local merchants came down town at 4 in the morning to make his shop awning secure. The timbers he used led people to believe that his business was being propped up.

Guess Miss Laura Dierssen is pleased with the artistic (?) gutter on Ocean Avenue. It carried the rushing water past Monte Verde as planned, and transformed the lady's lot into a lake. The telephones being out of commission, Herbert Hand's wireless was utilized, and a flash was sent Phil Wilson to bring up a boat so that Miss Dierssen could get her Pine Cone at the Postoffice.

D'ye ever hear this one, Bert?
An American and an Englishman were arguing "over there" as to the merits of Guy Empey's book, "Over the Top." The American asserted that the story was far-fetched, while the Britisher nobly defended his countryman.

"You are not an author—how is it possible for you to know so much when you have never written a book?" inquired the Tommy.

"No, I am not an author," replied the Yank, "and I admit I have never written a book. I have never laid an egg, either, but I am a better judge of an omlette than any chicken."
